

RADIO TACTICS EXHIBITS AT GPEC ASIA 2011

- Asia's general police equipment, emergency and special services event

27th – 29th June 2011

The Radio Tactics Australian team (www.radio-tactics.com) will be exhibiting in the UK Pavilion at GPEC Asia 2011.

The General Police Equipment Exhibition and Conference (<http://www.gpecasia.com.my/>) will be running from 27th to 29th June at the Putrajaya International Convention Centre (PICC) in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

GPEC Asia is a closed specialised trade show exclusively for specific members of the enforcement agencies, primarily, the police force and other enforcement authorities. This also includes the prison service, customs, immigration, security related departments, the military police and a select number of private security organisations.

This exhibition and conference is intended to provide a platform and forum for police, enforcement and security agencies to gather and exchange experiences and discuss issues in the interest of better security in the region.

GPEC Asia will feature some of the latest technological developments from almost all parts of the world aimed at enhancing homeland security and empowering police forces to respond to the policies of responsible governments.

Senior visitors will include ministers and decision makers from the Ministry of Home Affairs, national police and paramilitary organisations, the intelligence services, the coastguard and the various agencies involved in maritime, border, airport, transport, critical infrastructure security and disaster management.

Nick Butler, Chief Operating Officer of Radio Tactics Australia commented:

“GPEC Asia 2011 provides Radio Tactics with an ideal platform to showcase its high-tech digital intelligence and evidence gathering solutions to regional decision makers including ministers and chief of police, executives, procurement officers, technicians, instructors, members of parliament responsible for security tasks, police forces and other end users.

“Already working with customers across Asia, Radio Tactics understands the regional police requirements and the urgent need to procure the most advanced technological solutions to meet their homeland national security requirements.”
